It can be used for any type of activity on a computer that requires duplicate clicks. The tool does not integrate complex parameters or settings powered for all levels of the user. Easy setup and installation takes little time and minimal effort. Easy Auto Clicker is wrapped in a user-friendly interface based on a standard window that stays on top of other frames and can be reduced to the taskbar while the auto-click script is running. It shows all available options neatly organized. Install Install button, click type, spacing and frequency You can specify the click interval in hours, minutes, seconds and milliseconds, select the mouse button that will perform the click (left, right or middle), select one or two clicks, and determine the number of times to repeat the action or allow click until it is manually stopped by the user. The main window also contains two buttons dedicated to starting and stopping auto-click. You can use the default hotkey (F7) for these actions or change it to anything else, whether it's one key or a two-key combination. Evaluation and conclusion It worked smoothly in our tests without urging the operating system to hang, crash or request error messages. Unsurprisingly, this had minimal impact on computer performance using low processor and RAM. To wrap it up, Easy Auto Clicker offers a simple and intuitive method for customization of automatic mouse clicks. However, it contains only basic parameters.
